Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-38 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-59 of copending Application No. 10/443,755. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the only difference between these two sets of claims is that in the later filed case the second flexible element is omitted. Clearly applicant is attempting to obtain broader coverage in the claims of the latter. The question then becomes – Does the omission of the second flexible element in the later application constitute an obvious expedient to one of ordinary skill in the art?

It is well settled that the omission of an element and its function is an obvious expedient if the remaining elements perform the function as before. In re Karlson, 136 USPQ 184 (CCPA 1963). Thus the controlling fact is that patent protection for the flexible spine stabilization system, fully disclosed in and covered by the claims of the earlier filed application, would be extended by the allowance of the claims in the later filed application. As already stated, nothing prevented applicant from presenting the claims in the later filed application for examination during the prosecution of the earlier filed application.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Objections

Claim 16 is objected to because of the following informalities: there are two claims 16 in the application. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-5,22-29, 32-38 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Wu (4,570,618).

With respect to claim 1, Wu discloses a flexible spine stabilization system, as best seen in FIGS.1-7, comprising a first rod, as best seen in FIGS.2,4, having first end portions and a second end portion, a first flexible element(17) having at least a first slit; as best seen in FIGS.2,4; formed therein, wherein the first flexible element is disposed between the first and second end portion, wherein a first flexible element is integrally formed between the first and second rod portions (FIG. 4) and wherein the first flexible element permits motion of the first end portion relative to the first end portion; as best seen in FIGS.2-4 and as set forth in column 1, lines 59-68; a first fastener and a second fastener, as best seen in FIG.4.

Although Wu did not teach of fasteners; as claimed by applicant; however, the fastener of Wu are capable of securely disposing the first rod at least partially between the exterior of a first vertebra a second vertebra and third vertebra such that the spine stabilization system is capable of permitting limited movement of the first vertebra relative to the second vertebra or third vertebra.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 6-21,30,31 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wu (4,570,618).

With respect to claims 6-21,30,31, it is noted that Lin did not teach of a different degrees and dimension of the flexible elements; as claimed by applicant. However, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to reach the optimum range, since it has been held that where the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering the optimum or workable range involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233. It has also been held that discovering an optimum value of a result effective variable involves only routine skill in the art. In re Boesch, 617 F.2d 272, 205 USPQ 215 (CCPA 1980).

Response to Amendment

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-38 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

However, upon further consideration, the examiner noticed that applicant is not positively claiming the given subject matter. Applicant is only claiming the device is capable of performing certain functions, which any known device in the art is capable of performing. Applicant should more positively claim the subject matter.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
